DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

2. Claims 1, 6, 8-11 and 15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Luciano, JR. (US 2003/0232638 A1).

Concerning claims 1, 8, 10 and 11, Luciano, JR. teaches a method of playing a game of keno at a gaming device comprising the steps of: displaying a set of keno numbers accepting input from a player regarding one or more player selected numbers from said keno numbers displaying a set of game numbers [0010/0052]; determining if one or more of said game numbers match one or more of said player selected numbers [0011/0052]; displaying a secondary indicia [0055] in association with each player selected number [0052], said secondary indicia associated with player selected numbers which were determined to match one of said game numbers having an attribute indicating a match and said secondary indicia associated with player selected numbers which were determined not to match one of said game numbers having an attribute indicating no match, having at least two attributes for providing information regarding at least two different game states of said game [0052/0055]; and determining the if the outcome of said game is a winning or losing result [0056]. Luciano, Jr.

Art Unit: 3714

teaches said game is played as a wagering type game and including the step of accepting a wager from a player to play said game [0040].

Concerning claims 6 and 15, Luciano, JR. teaches secondary indicia displayed in physical proximity to each player selected number [0055].

Concerning claim 9, Luciano, JR. teaches said steps of displaying are performed on a video display of said gaming device [0027].

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

5. Claim 12 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over Luciano, JR. Concerning claim 12, Luciano, JR. teaches said game is the game of bingo [0004]. Luciano, JR. teaches that a bingo game is similar to a keno game. It would have been obvious to use a bingo game instead of a keno game, because all the claimed elements were known in the prior art and one skilled in the art could have combined the elements as claimed by known methods with no change in their respective functions, and the combination would have yielded predictable results to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention.

6. Claims 2-5, 7, and 13-14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Luciano, JR (US 2003/0232638 A1) in view of Bennett et al. (WO 00/32286).

Luciano, JR. discloses the game selected symbol can be animated figures [0032], however, lacks disclosing the specific actions of the animated figures. The international application to Bennett et al. teaches various methods of player information delivery in a game. Concerning claims 2-5, 7, 13 and 14, Bennett et al. teaches various animated smiley characters, other than numbers, that differ from one another in appearance to indicate happiness or celebration in a game appear when player has won or a match is indicated. These characters have mannerisms that provide information to the player [pg. 25, figures 14 –17]. The character may also indicate unhappiness or loss by exhibiting a sour expression [pg. 21, lines 3-4].

It would have been obvious to combine the keno game in the Luciano, JR. publication with the animated figures in the international application to Bennett et al, because all the claimed elements were known in the prior art and one skilled in the art could have combined the elements as claimed by known methods with no change in their respective functions, and the combination would have yielded predictable results to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention.
